U.S. Attorney's Office Joins Partners in Recognizing 45th Annual National Crime Victims' Rights Week, April 19-25, 2026

PORTLAND, Ore.— Every April, the Justice Department's Office for Victims of Crime (OVC) leads communities across the country in observing National Crime Victims' Rights Week to honor crime victims, promote their rights, and recognize victim advocates. This year's observance, the 45th annual commemoration, takes place April 19-25, 2026, with the theme: "Listen. Act. Advocate. Protect victims, serve communities."

The U.S. Attorney's Office joins its federal, state, local, and tribal law enforcement partners in taking this opportunity to highlight the importance of providing necessary services at the earliest possible stages of victimization, investigations, and prosecutions. Early intervention helps prevent further victimization and encourages victim involvement in the criminal justice system, mitigating the cycle of violence and restoring hope for the future.

"We remain steadfast in our mission to protect the rights of crime victims," said Scott E. Bradford, U.S. Attorney for the District of Oregon. "My office will continue to vigorously advocate for crime victims and ensure justice is sought on their behalf."

Over the last several months, the District of Oregon has prosecuted a number of victim-focused cases including:

- *United States v. Hugo Gomez-Soto*: A federal jury in Portland found Hugo Gomez-Soto guilty for distributing fentanyl that resulted in the fatal overdose death of a Portland, Oregon, man.
- *United States v. Javier Francisco Vigil*: Javier Francisco Vigil pleaded guilty on the second day of trial to attempted murder of a police officer, robbery, and felon in possession of a firearm (Armed Career Criminal Act) related to an armed robbery of the Wildhorse Resort and Casino on the Umatilla Indian Reservation in 2022.
- *United States v. Misael Flores Ramirez*: Misael Flores Ramirez was sentenced to over 21 years in federal prison for sexually exploiting multiple minors online and receiving sexually explicit images and videos of the minor victims.
- *United States v. Daniel Andrew McGee*: Daniel Andrew McGee was sentenced to over 12 years in federal prison for a federal hate crime after assaulting a victim on the basis of their sexual orientation.
- *United States v. Eric Lamont Harris*: Eric Lamont Harris pleaded guilty on day four of his jury trial and was sentenced to over 24 years in federal prison for sex trafficking three minors.

- *United States v. Steven Daniel Griswold*: Steven Daniel Griswold was sentenced to over 21 years in federal prison for ordering live-streamed child sexual abuse material from child sex traffickers in the Philippines in exchange for money.
- *United States v. Michael Cambalik*: Michael Cambalik was sentenced to over 33 years in federal prison for coercion and enticement of a minor after he directed the minor victim to send him child sexual abuse material.
- *United States v. Harold Charley*: Harold Charley was sentenced to 20 years in federal prison for sexually abusing two minors on the Warm Springs Indian Reservation.
- *United States v. Kenneth Green*: Kenneth Green was sentenced to over 12 years in federal prison for ordering live-streamed child sexual abuse and traveling to the Philippines to engage in illicit sexual activity while working as a firefighter for the Lake Oswego Fire Department.

Additionally, in the past year, the U.S. Attorney's Office for District of Oregon has collected more than $20 million through criminal and civil actions, much of which is used to pay restitution to victims and to fund federal and state victim compensation and assistance programs.

During National Crime Victims' Rights Week, victim advocacy organizations, community groups and state, local, and tribal agencies host rallies, candlelight vigils, and other events to raise awareness of victims' rights and services.

OVC and U.S. Attorney's Offices encourage widespread participation in the week's events and in other victim-related observances throughout the year. For additional information about this year's National Crime Victims' Rights Week and how to assist victims in your community, please visit OVC's website at www.ovc.gov.
